FACTS

40. Defendant was on notice that an epidemic of prescription drug abuse existed in West Virginia and in the specific areas of the State in which their customers were located.

41. Defendant was on notice that the controlled substances it distributed were the kinds that were susceptible to being diverted for illegal purposes.

42. Defendant was on notice that West Virginia law required it, inter alia, to provide effective controls and procedures to guard against diversion of controlled substances, pursuant to 15 C.S.R. § 2-4.21 and 2-4.4 and the WV Controlled Substances Act.
43. Defendant was on notice that the Healthcare Distribution Management Association (“HDMA”) “Industry Compliance Guidelines: Reporting Suspicious Orders and Preventing Diversion of Controlled Substances” stressed the critical role of each member of the supply chain in distributing controlled substances. These industry guidelines further provided: “At the center of a sophisticated supply chain, distributors are uniquely situated to perform due diligence in order to help support the security of controlled substances they deliver to their customers.”
44. Defendant knew, or should have known that West Virginia had an exceedingly high rate of illegal use and diversion of prescription opioids.
45. Numerous publications, news sources and studies highlighted the epidemic rate of opioid abuse and overdose rates in West Virginia.
46. According to a study from the Trust for America’s Health and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation that focused on overdose statistics from 2009-2013, West Virginia has the highest overdose rate in the country.
47. Defendant shipped millions of doses of highly addictive controlled pain killers into the state, many of which should have been stopped and/or investigated as suspicious orders.
48. Defendant failed to adopt any affirmative efforts to prevent diversion of its medicines to illegal purposes.

49. Rather than outline each of the millions of suspicious orders that Defendant blindly filled, Plaintiffs will demonstrate, by example, the level of disregard Defendant had for attempting to protect the citizens of West Virginia from the detrimental effects of the Defendant's negligent, intentional, and/or reckless proliferation of highly addictive opioid-based prescription painkillers. The examples are indicative of other counties and small communities throughout the state:

BOONE COUNTY

50. From 2007-2012, the Defendant distributed 670,090¹ doses of Hydrocodone to pharmacies and drug stores in Boone County, WV.

55. According to the CDC, from 2003-2012, the percentage of adults over the age of twenty who used a prescription opioid analgesic rose from 5% to 6.9% in the United States.

56. According to the CDC, while the individuals receiving the prescription for opioid analgesics may change, the average remained at 6.9% of the population from 2003 to 2012.

59. Based on Defendant's estimates that it provides 1/3 of the prescription medications to North America, it should have anticipated that it was supplying approximately 1/3 of the prescription pain killers to West Virginia.
60. While the estimates (for the purpose of the examples used in this Complaint) use McKesson's figure of 33.3%, McKesson's actual share of the market (inclusive of all sources) in West Virginia for Oxycodone and Hydrocodone was 12.75%, which makes these statistics even more egregious.

68. Defendant undertook no efforts to determine whether the volume of prescription pain killers it was shipping to Boone County was excessive and whether any of the orders it filled qualified as suspicious orders, which should have been refused.
69. Upon information and belief, the Defendant did not refuse to fill any prescriptions from a Boone County pharmacy between 2007 and 2012.

COUNT I
VIOLATION OF THE WEST VIRGINIA CONSUMER CREDIT AND PROTECTION ACT

332. Plaintiffs incorporate, by reference, all allegations and averments in Paragraphs 1-331 of this Complaint.

333. Pursuant to W.Va. Code § 60A-5-501(c), the Attorney General is invested with the duty and authority to assist in the enforcement of the provisions of the Uniform Controlled Substances Act.

334. Pursuant to W.Va. Code§ 46A-7-101 et seq., the Attorney General has investigatory powers and the authority to sue for violations of the West Virginia Consumer and Credit Protection Act (WVCCPA), including the right to seek civil penalties and other remedies.

336. McKesson engaged in a course of repeated and willful violations of the WVCCPA.
337. The Attorney General requests that the Court assess civil penalties against the Defendant of five thousand dollars ($5,000) for each violation.
338. Plaintiffs are entitled to receive their costs and attorneys' fees for prosecuting this action under W.Va. Code §46A-5-104.
339. The determination of civil penalties is a determination to be made by the Court and is in addition to any amount of damages awarded by the jury.
340. The Court may also consider the fact that McKesson entered into a previous settlement agreement with six United States Attorney's Offices on May 2, 2008, in which it paid $13.25 million in civil penalties and "entered an administrative agreement with DEA in which it agrees to implement new policies and procedures to detect and prevent drug diversion beyond those currently required by federal regulation."
341. In making this determination, the Court may consider the egregious behavior of McKesson which resulted in a second settlement with the United States Government in 2015 for $150 million for failure to report suspicious transactions, which also included a requirement for McKesson to develop and implement an effective anti-diversion policy.

342. The volume of controlled substances shipped to West Virginia greatly dwarf the volume of controlled substances represented in this settlement.

344. Defendant is one of the largest and most profitable distributors of pharmaceutical drugs in the world.

345. McKesson receives substantial profits from the sale of its controlled pain killers to states like West Virginia.

346. McKesson was in the position to develop and implement the most sophisticated and precise system of detecting and stopping the supply of prescription medicine which were suspicious orders.

347. McKesson has willingly chosen to settle lawsuits as they arose rather than implement a system to prevent diversion of the controlled substances it supplied.
